Sustainable Land Development Code (SLDC)

The Santa Fe Board of County Commissioners held several public meetings throughout the county in 2014 as part of the Zoning Map Adoption Process. The Sustainable Land Development Code (SLDC) will go into effect when the Board of County Commissioners adopts the zoning map. The zoning map will go before the County Commission in late 2015. All property has been assigned a zoning classification in accordance with the SLDC.

~ 2014 District 2 Capital Projects~

Calle Nopal Improvements

During the November 25, 2014 Board of County Commissioners Meeting, the use of District 2 Capital Funds was authorized per Capital Outlay Policy, allocating $40,000 to chip seal Paseo Nopal. The measure passed by unanimous vote of 5-0. The County will apply a double-penetration chip seal to the road using in-house forces as soon as temperatures allow (around late March). This will give the road a like-new driving surface.

Santa Fe County Human Resources Building Renovation

The Human Resources building was renovated extensively to provide a better working environment for County employees and a better customer service experience for the constituents of Santa Fe County. The renovation included upgrading the bathrooms, fixing heating/cooling issues, creating a new conference room and office space, and installing new finishes.

Piñon Hills Projects

Extensive work was done in this subdivision. Several roads were paved and drainage was improved. The arroyo running through the center of the subdivision was cleaned and dredged. Large arch culverts were installed under Calle Enrique, which was raised and paved, replacing a low-water crossing. The County also placed a large arch culvert under Calle Estevan, replacing an existing dirt low-water crossing. The arroyo crossing at Calle Suzanna, currently a low-water crossing, is in design to become a culverted crossing.
